Calling Women Trade Unionists Equality – Still on the Horizon

This FREE one day workshop is for women members who would like to understand more about women at Work, in Society and in Trade Unions.

What is it about? This new one day course will be held during International Women's Week and is exclusive to women. It will help you identify issues or barriers that contribute to the inequality women still experience.

This course is for you... it doesn't matter what job you do or what level you work at. You just have to be a Trade Union member. If you are interested in helping yourself or other women progress, then come along to find out what can be done.

What will it cover? The workshop will explore some of the tools and techniques that unions and other work-based organisations use to address the obstacles that are identified. All of the learning activities will be team-based and practical, so ideas and solutions will be shared among the group.

What level do you need to be at? No entry requirements - all women trade unionists welcome on this accessible and practical workshop.

Where and When?

Thursday 5 March 2015 from 10am to 4pm

You can choose to attend one of four trade union studies centres in the Midlands Region: Nottingham, Leicester, Stoke-on-Trent or Solihull

What do you do now? Complete and return the attached booking form to Surjit Chohan by email at schohan@tuc.org.uk, or by post: TUC, Unionlearn, 24 Livery Street, Birmingham B3 2PA.
